Advising – Update from Statewide Meeting

- L. Vega shared the notes from the Statewide Meeting; he will pass them along after the meeting. [see last page]
 - The NACADA conference will take place on March 16-18, 2022, in Orange County.
 - Some of the campuses are still working on getting approval for students to be able to repeat courses beyond a third time, specifically, for those students who need to re-assess success in the major and Grad school plans. L. Vega shared that this is not an issue for us since we already had a senate resolution for the repetition of a course beyond a third time.
 - L. Vega shared that there may be some campus visits from Duan Jackson to provide feedback on advising models across the CSU; however, they are still working on figuring out when and how they will go about it.
 - The enrollment deadlines for all CSU's were shared; however, those deadlines are subject to change because not all campuses agree with them. CSUB's deadline is set for December 15.
 - Grad schools in the CSU have decided to honor pass/no pass grades from the spring given the special circumstances that COVID-19 brought and CSU policy dictates.
 - Ethnic Studies may not be required for transfer students; it will depend on when they enrolled and catalog rights.
 - There is a push to provide more credit for prior learning. There will be an executive order from the Chancellor's Office and more guidelines soon.
 - Governor Gavin Newsom recently signed a mandate for community colleges to implement course numbering to be similar across that system.
- L. Vega will forward the notice on the Affordability and Accessibility Legislation that was recently signed by Governor Gavin Newsom.

California Promise Program –

- L. Vega will pass along the California Promise Program document that was shared during the meeting.
 - The document included data on the number of students from the different CSU's who are currently in the program.
 - The program is focused on a timeline and not on units.
 - Once a student is accepted into the program; the program advisors oversee the needs of the student to succeed and complete the program.
 - K. Lopez shared that the program is not suitable for students pursuing a degree in the sciences as it is extremely difficult for them to meet the program requirements because of the extensive workload they endure and the two-year deadline for ADT students or 4 years for freshmen.
 - There was concern regarding the program having early enrollment access and how that would impact time to degree for other students as it continuous to grow.
 - L. Vega shared that there is frustration in running the program over the fact that no money has been provided to support the program.

- L. Vega will collect data on how many students have completed the program and graduated in the predetermined time of 4 or 2 years. Once he completes the report on the program, he will share it with the committee.

GI 2025 & Equity Gaps Charge- Coordinated Care

- L. Vega shared that there may be mandatory advising to meet the Graduation rates for 2025. Additionally, the GI 2025 may be put on advisors.
- Advising ratios are an issue across all other campuses. The issue lies on not having enough funds and degree audits not being as accurate.
- For the coordinated care approach, we must use RunnerConnect to gather more analytics. There are also midterm reports that may help with gathering data; however, there needs to be a way to efficiently collect that data from instructors about those students who are at risk.

Notes in RunnerConnect Policy Referral

- L. Vega shared that this issue is still something that needs to be worked on, and that faculty advisors' workload issues come into play.

Follow up – ALT Charge Outlined by Provost Harper to Associate Deans

- The charge has still not been developed, but the most recent advising report related to WSCUC suggest more direction will be provided next semester.

Guiding Principles- [SSU template]/ Advising Syllabus [CSUN Template]

- Y. Morones shared that an Advising Syllabus had been done before and they still had them; however, they had not been useful as they were very far from the roles of advisors.
- L. Gubkin stated that there is need for advisors to have focused responsibilities to be successful.

Stretch Program

- K. Flachmann shared that over the last few weeks they have been trying to solve the issue with guided registration for stretch students. It has been decided that stretch students will be moved/enrolled through block scheduling where they will have the same instructor, class time, and cohort. If their schedule does not allow for that time block, then they will be able to move it as they see fit.
- Graduation notices for students who have 85 to 90 units will be displayed on degree audit (active now), as well as in Things to Do (coming soon) on MyCSUB.

Meeting ended at 3:30 p.m.
